SINGAPORE CHRONICLES

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Singapore’s Independence, the Institute of Policy Studies and Straits Times Press are jointly launching the Singapore Chronicles series in 2015. This 50-volume series seeks to record, explain and offer insights into what makes Singapore, Singapore. Covering a wide range of subjects, from the philosophical to the mundane, the fundamental to the practical, these Singapore Chronicles titles include Constitution, Presidency, Housing, Transport, Demography, CPF, Sports and Food. Each volume in this series will serve as a primer on the subject. Written by leading experts, they will focus on key aspects of the subject, providing analysis as well as an historical account. Readers will gain an insight into what makes Singapore tick and also why it has chosen certain “paths un-trodden”.

LAW

This book tells the story of the Singapore legal system. Beginning with the British years, it moves on to the post-independence period, when a new Singapore had to grapple with the judicious mix of legacy laws and new laws that the new environment demanded. That was followed by the years of expansion as the complexity of the local environment deepened. The legal system had to be further refined as Singapore embraced technological advances and globalisation. This is a story of a fast changing and yet remarkably stable legal system that has been the cornerstone of Singapore’s commitment to the rule of law.

Contents
Foreword
1 Aspects of the Singapore Legal System
2 Legacy of the British Colonial Period and the Road to Independence
3 Establishment and Development of the Legal System and Judiciary
4 Evolution of the Legal Profession
5 Development of Legal Education
6 The Criminal Justice System: From Crime Control to Due Process?
7 Enhancing the Efficiency of Justice
8 Continued Upholding of the Rule of Law
9 The Growth of Community Law and Legal Social Involvement
10 Development of an Autochthonous Legal System
11 The Next Leap: Rise of Singapore as a Legal Disputes Resolution Hub
Endnotes
Further Reading
Index

The Author
Goh Yihan is an Associate Professor of Law at the Singapore Management University since 2014. Before that, he was an Assistant Professor at the National University of Singapore, and an Assistant Registrar and Senior Justices’ Law Clerk at the Supreme Court of Singapore. He has written on various aspects of the Singapore legal system and is a co-editor of Singapore Law: 50 Years in the Making. He also specialises in the law of contract and tort. Among his many publications, he is a contributor to The Law of Contract in Singapore, and a co-author of Contract Law in Singapore. In 2013, he was awarded the Singapore Law Merit Award by the Singapore Academy of Law in recognition of his contributions to the development and advancement of Singapore law.